HE "NAMED NAMES."

A Correspondent Who Violated the German Journalistic Code.

The American newspaper thinks it essential to make clear the source of important statements. An interview with a nameless statesman whose identity cannot even be guessed from the context is put down in American newspaper parlance as "a fake." But the opposite method is the method in the continental countries of Europe. There it is an unpardonable offense to name your informant.

This knowledge I purchased at rather an inconvenient price when I had been but three months in Berlin as correspondent of the American Associated Press. It was in the early autumn of 1894. Bismarck's successor in the unsafe chair of the imperial chancellor, General Count Caprivi, had resigned early in the evening after a stormy meeting with the kaiser. At 10 o'clock that night Caprivi accorded me an interview. He did not request that his name be withheld. In my ignorance I quoted him in my cablegram that night. His talk to me had been brief, but to the point. He had told me of the causes that had led to his loss of favor with the kaiser and to his retirement.

But I had unwittingly violated one of the first principles in the code of German journalistic ethics. And I reaped a whirlwind of abuse for it. "That news is bogus—must be bogus, you know," said the German newspapers and their correspondents, "for, don't you see, he has quoted Caprivi."

For years the reputation thus earned made my work doubly hard. Whenever I happened into one of the departments a whisper ran round, "That is the man who names names." I never quite got over this during my long stay in Berlin.—Wolf von Schierbrand in World's Work.

THE BABY OYSTER.

Its Habits in Its Home on the Floor of the Deep.

The oyster is most interesting during babyhood, says Charles Frederick Stansbury in Outing. Its manner of making a set suggests the sublime confidence of childhood. It prefers to adhere to odd objects, and its childish taste in this direction often encompasses its destruction. If an old boot, a waterlogged box, a brick, a lump of coal or piece of discarded and fractured crockery lies upon the bed of the ocean where a set is in progress, the young oysters or eggs will cluster thick and fast upon it, showing a very decided preference as against the surrounding natural anchorage. I have even seen a pair of corsets that could never again hope to imprison the waist of lovely woman entirely covered with a set of young oysters. Thus does Nature pay her tribute to Art.

A favorite foundation for life adopted by sensible young oysters is upon the shells of their ancestors long since defunct, and for this reason many planters strew the bottom of their holdings with such "clutch" in the hope that the wandering ova will stop and there adopt a local habitation.

Lying thus upon the floor of the deep, the young oyster begins to grow, and in doing so invariably points his little "bill" heavenward, an attitude that he maintains throughout life if undisturbed. As he grows older his shell is often used by the flora of the sea as an anchorage, and thus he is apt to be found enveloped in the foliage of the curious oyster sponge, coralline, red and green sea lettuce and other quaint species of algae and sea grasses. The dogwinkle, too, and his cousin, the periwinkle, are very fond of attaching their eggs to the shell of the oyster, each one by a delicate stem, causing it to appear like some curious sea flower.

The Soldier's Last March.

Why is it that the most solemn service ever devised by man, the stately hush of the vast cathedral, the imposing robes, the stained glass windows, the pealing organ, all fade into insignificance beside that soul stirring, simple act—the trumpeting out of "taps" over the body of a dead soldier? No man who has ever heard it, either on the field of battle, at the quiet army post or in the haven of these weak and shattered units of the Grand Army of the Republic, ever forgets it. For the bugle notes seem to take into their own all embracing cadence the tears, the memories, the shattered hopes and the long farewell.—John R. Rathorn in Scribner's.

Cures For Insomnia.

To an overworked little woman who suffers from insomnia an old doctor delivered himself as follows:

"Shun all the devices one hears so much about, such as counting up to 5,000. They are maddening. Never take night baths if their action is too stimulating. Go in for a few physical exercises, including deep breathing. After the exercises walk backward on tiptoe round the room until forty or fifty steps have been taken. When in bed, relax the body completely. Take long, slow, deep breaths, and if you must think of something imagine yourself surrounded and supported by a soft, strong, gray cloud which is bearing you off to slumberland. Drinking a glass of warm milk just before retiring sometimes hastens the trip."—New York Press.

PLANTS THAT CLIMB.

Peculiarities of Their Leaves and Their Modes of Movement.

It is in the twining plants, such as bryony and hop, and the tendrill bearers, like vetches, that we find the highest development of the climbing habit. These plants live under unusual conditions. In order to gain the light they must seek rather than avoid overhanging foliage, and so we find the vetches, instead of turning away from the shadow toward the light, like most of their neighbors, boldly pushing up into the center of a bush to burst into blossom amid its upper branches far above their less daring neighbors.

But it is in the leaves of these plants that we find the most remarkable modifications adapting them to a climbing habit. The leaves of the vetches and vetchlings are pinnate—they bear a number of opposite ovate leaflets. The tip of the leaf stalk and the uppermost pair of pinnae are in the climbing species, changed into tendrils—sensitive, twining, whiplike structures—which exhibit remarkable features. If the slightly curved, extended tendril of a young leaf of pea or vetch be watched carefully it will be found that it is slowly but incessantly moving round and round in a circle. If the tendril comes into contact with a twig it bends toward it and eventually takes several turns around it. Even a slight temporary irritation is sufficient to cause a bending toward any side.

Finally the tendril becomes woody and strong and forms a secure anchor cable for the plant. Not only does the young tendril rotate, but the whole leaf on which it is borne is in constant motion. The shoot to which the leaf belongs is rotating also, so that the tendril is sweeping the air with a complicated motion, in the course of which it is almost sure to strike against some stem or twig of the surrounding vegetation.—Knowledge.

Open Coffins in Greece.

The American tourist in Greece is often shocked by the sight of a funeral procession passing through the streets with the dead body borne in an open coffin. This custom originated in a curious way. When the Turks were masters of Greece they discovered that Greek revolutionists carried arms about the country in coffins, so they decreed that all coffins must be carried open. After the Greeks regained their freedom they continued the custom from force of habit.

A Real Bargain.

"In time," said the struggling artist, "that painting will be of great value. All you have to do is to tuck it away in an attic somewhere and keep it for about 200 years, by which time I will have become one of the old masters. Then you can sell it easily for $10,000. You see, I know the rules, but unfortunately I am not in a financial position to carry them out. So, if you want a real bargain, I'll let you have this little gem for $1.50."—Chicago Post.

Queer Looking Worms.

New Zealand, Australia, the Samoan and the Solomon islands as well as portions of the Hawaiian group are the homes of various species of worms with thick, heavy bodies and with a well defined neck connecting the body with a head that is a startling reminder of that of the monkey. In the Sandwich Islands they are called "me-ta-lu-ki," which means "creeper with a child's head." An old New Zealand legend says that at one time they were of immense proportions and threatened the extinction of all human life on the islands.

The Old Man's Snake Story.

"And you say the snake was fifteen feet long?"

"Well, suh, he looked dat long w'en he stretched his full length ter strike me."

"But—a snake never strikes unless he's in coll."

"Marse Tom," said the old man, "we better end dis conversation right whar it is. Either I'm a nachul bo'n liar or long drinkin' bez made you a fust class authority on snakes!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Only One Bar.

"Yes, I think he'd be a poet if it were not for one thing."

"What's that?"

"He isn't rich enough to be able to indulge in unprofitable pleasures."

"But poets are often poor."

"Well, he isn't poor enough to be utterly discouraged either."—Chicago Post.

Death of General Lombard.

New Orleans, May 5.—General E. H. Lombard, former major general commanding the Louisiana division of United Confederate Veterans is dead. General Lombard was a native of Pointe Coupee and served gallantly with the Pointe Coupee artillery during civil war, and being frequently mentioned for bravery on the field. He was for many years land agent of the Citizens' bank. He was sixty-two years of age.

No Cause For Complaint.

"So you resent these hints of dishonesty in the government?"

"Most emphatic," answered Farmer Coratossel. "I've been buyin' postage stamps from the government for years and never got cheated yet."—Washington Star.

The person who neglects to provide for a "Rainy Day" neglects the first duty. Every practical thinking man realizes that it is a duty he owes to himself and his family to save a portion, however small of his earnings. A saving account opened early in life and systematically kept up, will in time afford the means to grasp business opportunities. It will help to buy a home, provide in time of sickness and insure a competency and the comforts of life in old age. ## THE DAILY EAGLE.

Entered at the postoffice as second class mail matter.

BY CONNELLY & CARNES.

Per Week, 15c. - - Per Month, 40c.

BRYAN, TEXAS, MAY 23, 1903

The prohibitionists carried Orange by a majority of thirty.

The Mable Falls cotton and woolen mill has been sold for $15,000.

The grain dealers estimate the Texas wheat crop at fifteen to eighteen million bushels, which means plenty of biscuits for awhile longer.

About 250,000 acres of state land in western counties will come on the market at 12:01 o'clock a. m., June 12. These are lands upon which leases have expired.

The Navasota Daily Examiner and Palestine Daily Herald are conducting Colorado trip contests along the same lines as The Eagle, and are arousing much interest.

The Boers have secured 100,000 acres of land in the state of Tamaulipas, Mexico, upon which 2,500 of them will be colonized. There they will be beyond the reach of English avarice.

The authorities of Philadelphia burned 1,300 slot machines in one day this week. Well, it is said 100,000 bibles have been given away in Pennsylvania this year. The results should begin to show somewhere.

Gen. Gordon, in a speech at New Orleans, told the veterans that "You boys must not die until you have built that monument to Southern women. Build it white and pure, and let it tower to show what the men of the South think of the women."

There were 1,513 camps represented in the great New Orleans reunion and 2,423 properly accredited delegates present. Gen. John B. Gordon was re-elected commander-in-chief and Gen. W. L. Cabell of Dallas re-elected commander of the Trans-Mississippi department. The people throughout the South will rejoice in the announcement that $200,000 is now available for the building of the proposed Confederate Battle Abbey and the time has arrived for the commencement of the work.

One of the most remarkable salt lakes in the world is situated in Hidalgo county, Texas. It is said to contain 708 acres of pure salt. The salt is three or four feet deep in crystal form, and the water is a brine of unusual strength, and crystalizes with such rapidity that no matter how large a quantity of salt is removed from the lake one day, there will be found the next day salt of a similar quality, which is evidence that the bed of the lake is composed of pure rock salt equal to any in the world and in unlimited quantities.

Will Sprinkle With Oil.

Arrangements are being made to sprinkle the Texas Midland roadbed from Ennis to Paris with oil to abate the dust nuisance, which is the usual concomitant of summer travel, and to make a trip over the Midland on the dustiest day of the year a source of unalloyed pleasure. The management long ago had this plan under advisement and had reached a decision to apply the oil, but the difficulty in obtaining the oil has heretofore been the obstacle in the way. Now that that has been removed it is expected that the roadbed will be

The Colorado Trip Coupons

The Bryan Eagle has purchased two round-trip excursion tickets from Bryan to Boulder, Colo., and return, and will give them free of charge to two persons to be selected by a voting contest. The tickets call for first-class accommodations in every respect, with stop-over privileges at all points, and are good for return passage until Oct. 31. They include also a side trip from Boulder to the great Cripple Creek Mining City or to Pike's Peak and return.

HOW TO GET THE TRIP.

The recipients of this benefit will be selected by vote. The Bryan Weekly Eagle after May 14 and the Bryan Daily Eagle after May 17 will contain Coupons good for votes in this contest. The Weekly Eagle Coupon is good for six votes, and the Daily Eagle Coupon good for one vote. This equalizes the chances of Weekly Eagle readers with readers of the daily edition. Also twenty votes will be allowed for each cash subscription of $1.00 for the Weekly Eagle.

Besides these coupons the merchants of Bryan named below will give coupons with all retail sales of merchandise, at the rate of one vote for each ten cents sold for cash or on thirty days. A 10 cent purchase gets one vote, a 20 cent purchase two votes, etc. These coupons will be given out by these merchants on and after Monday, May 18.

WHO CAN ENTER THE CONTEST.

Any white person in Bryan or in Brazos or surrounding counties is eligible to enter the contest for this trip, except that no person connected with the Eagle or related to its publishers or employees can either contest for the prize or vote in the contest. The contest closes July 23, and votes will be counted and results announced July 24. The first count of votes will be on June 8, and every Monday thereafter.

MISS MAY MARKELL,

A Society Belle of London, Canada.

MISS MAY MARKELL of London, Ontario, Canada, is a beautiful girl who knows what suffering is and Wine of Cardui has brought her back to health. She is one of the social favorites of her home and her recovery to health has permitted her to enjoy the company of her many friends instead of lying on flow in a healthy and natural manner. Menstruation started right is very easy to keep regular through the years of mature womanhood. Then the "change of life" need not be feared. Thus Wine of Cardui is woman's best relief from youth to old age. A million women have secured blessed relief from their sufferings by taking this treatment. It relieves menstrual troubles in an incredibly short time. In a simple case of deranged menses Wine of Cardui never fails. To relieve disordered menses is to remove the cause of other female troubles. Any physician will tell you that to remove the cause of a disease renders the cure easy, in fact seldom fails to complete the cure. If you would have the same relief which Miss Markell secured try Wine of Cardui. You can take it without an examination and without any publicity whatever. You can take it in the privacy of your home and secure just as much benefit as if a doctor had prescribed it for you. Thousands of women are feeling the vigor of returning health by taking Wine of Cardui.

"I have found Wine of Cardui an excellent remedy for female trouble. I suffered for three years with terrible bearing-down pains at the menstrual period. I could hardly stand on my feet and was never real well. Wine of Cardui was the only medicine that I could depend on to do me any good, as I tried several with no success. Wine of Cardui cured me and I have now enjoyed perfect health for two years, and give you all the credit for I know you deserve it."

For a young girl Wine of Cardui is the best remedy to guide her through womanhood by starting the menstrual

Do You Enjoy What You Eat?

You can eat whatever and whenever you like if you take Kodol. By the use of this remedy disordered digestion and diseased stomachs are so completely restored to health, and the full performance of their functions naturally, that such foods as would tie one into a double-bow-knot are eaten without even a "rumbling" and with a positive pleasure and enjoyment. And what is more—these foods are assimilated and transformed into the kind of nutriment that is appropriated by the blood and tissues. Kodol is the only digestant or combination of digestants that will digest all classes of food. In addition to this fact, it contains, in assimilative form, the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all disorders arising therefrom.

Kodol Digests What You Eat! Makes the Stomach Sweet. Bottles only. Regular size, $1.00, holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50 cents. Prepared by E. C. DeWITT & CO., Chicago, Ill. Sold By Dr. N. M. McDOUGALD

Dr. David F. Houston and Prof. W. D. Gibbs returned yesterday after an inspection of the Troupe experiment station. They report that Prof. Green, who is in charge of the station, has the work in splendid shape.

Dr. W. H. Oliver has gone to Dallas to witness operations in bloodless surgery there today by the celebrated Austrian physician, Dr. Lorenz, whose work is a leading topic of discussion throughout the medical world.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Hallie Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam R. Henderson, to Mr. Alexander McGowan Ferguson of Austin, at the First Baptist church in Bryan, Wednesday, June 3, at 11 o'clock.

The International & Great Northern will put on through sleeping car service between Galveston and Denver, commencing May 31. The new train will leave Galveston about 6:30 p. m. over the new line to Fort Worth, thence via the Fort Worth & Denver, making the most direct route to Denver.

Rev. J. V. Coombs of Indianapolis, Ind., one of the most talented pulpits orators in the country, is now holding a meeting in Houston, and the ladies of the Christian church here have been fortunate in securing him for a lecture Tuesday night, June 27. His subject is "Strange Things and Funny People." As there are plenty of both in the world one can readily see that the lecture will be well worth hearing. A nominal admission of 25 cents will be charged. 145

The Eagle has secured from County Clerk G. W. McMichael fourteen of the regular ballot boxes used by the county at all elections and has placed them with all the merchants who are handling the Colorado trip coupons. We also have one at the Eagle office. These boxes are securely locked and have been placed for the convenience of all concerned. Call for coupons with all purchases. You can vote them on the spot if you desire or hold them as long as the limit may allow. You will find a list of those handling the coupons in this paper.

BRAZOS COUNTY FARMERS INSTITUTE.

Result of the Meeting with the People of Harris School Yesterday.

The second meeting in the country of the Brazos County Farmers' Institute was held yesterday at Harris school house and attended by two hundred and fifty or three hundred people. It was thoroughly successful and the interest shown indicated that the institute movement has come to stay, and the plan of meeting the country is the proper thing. Dinner was spread on the grounds, and a splendid dinner it was. The large delegation from town was made to feel at home, and the evidences of common interest in the movement were never more gratifyingly manifested.

President J. H. White presided at the meeting and made a strong talk on the necessity for organization. F. Marion Law and other members of the board of directors of the Central Texas Fair were present to ask the co-operation of the institute in securing exhibits for the fair, and also in the plan to hold a four days institute in connection with the fair August 19 to 21 inclusive. Mr. Law addressed the meeting in the interest of the fair, covering in an able way the points already mentioned, and also explaining its objects and benefit to all the people of this and adjoining counties. He further set forth the difficulty and expense of maintaining the fair, and said the management was fully aware that it could not succeed without the earnest and active co-operation of the farmers. The sentiment of the institute was found to be most favorable to the fair, and all who expressed themselves said they would do all they could for it. It was agreed that action on the proposition for an institute during the fair be delayed until the June meeting of the institute in order to give everybody a chance to discuss it.

Walter Wipprecht was appointed central chairman of a general committee covering the county to secure exhibits for the Farmers' Congress which meets at College in July. Prof. B. C. Pittuck of College was present and made a fine talk on alfalfa. Good talks on other subjects were also made by S. B. Buchanan, Mark Wilcox, F. A. Capps and others. Those in attendance from Bryan were W. A. Watkins, J. G. Minkert, Miss Mary Minkert, F. Marion Law and wife, Webb Howell, Jas. H. Webb, Jno. M. Lawrence, Joe Wren, A. W. Buchanan, S. B. Buchanan, R. G. Tabor, Luther Taylor, Dr. N. M. McDougald, Will Higgs, Rev. G. A. Foster.

The next meeting of the institute will be held at Steep Hollow Friday, June 19.

CLOSE OBSERVERS.

Savages Note Things to Which Civilized Eyes Are Blind.

Savages are supposed to have keener senses, especially a keener sense of sight, than civilized races. The author of "Idle Days in Patagonia" does not accept this theory. He believes that savages have no keener senses, but that they pay closer attention to what comes within the range of their perception. As an instance of quick response to an impression he tells the following story:

On March 12, 1861, a company of hunters were camping beside a grove of willows in Patagonia. About 9 o'clock that evening, while they were seated round the fire roasting their ostrich meat, Sosa suddenly sprang to his feet and held his open hand high above his head for some moments.

"There is not a breath of wind blowing," he exclaimed, "yet the leaves of the trees are trembling. What can this portend?"

The others stared at the trees, but could see no motion, and they began to laugh at him. Presently he sat down again, remarking that the trembling had ceased, but during the rest of the evening he was very much disturbed in his mind. He remarked repeatedly that such a thing had never happened in his experience before, for, he said, he could feel a breath of wind before the leaves felt it, and there had been no wind. He feared that it was a warning of some disaster about to overtake their party.

The disaster was not for them. On that evening occurred the earthquake which destroyed the distant city of Mendoza and crushed 12,000 people to death beneath the ruins. That the subterranean wave extended east to the Plata and southward into Patagonia was afterward known, for in the cities of Rosario and Buenos Ayres clocks stopped, and a slight shock was also experienced in the Carmen on the Rio Negro.

PEOPLE WHO APPEAR OLD.

How They May Preserve the Buoyancy and Freshness of Youth.

People who appear old must expect to be considered so, and, if they apply for positions with every appearance that senility has struck them and that they have gone to seed, they cannot expect favorable consideration. If gray haired applicants for positions would only appreciate the value of appearances and would "brace up" when they seek situations—go "well groomed" and well dressed, with elastic steps, showing that they still possess fire, force and enthusiasm—they would eliminate an obstacle greater than their gray hairs.

We think ourselves into incapacity by looking for signs of age and dwelling on them, and the body follows the thought. We should, therefore, avoid the appearance of age in every possible way—by dress, carriage, conversation and especially by our attitude toward people and things. It is not difficult to preserve the buoyancy and freshness of youth, but it must be done by constant effort and practice. A musician who expects to make only one or two important appearances a year must keep up his practice. Youthfulness cannot be put on for a day if old age has had a grip on you for months.

It is important to preserve the fire of youth as long as possible, to carry freshness and vigor into old age by keeping up a hearty interest in everything that interests youth. Many of us seem to think that youthful sports and pastimes are foolish, and before we know it we get entirely out of sympathy with all young life, and consequently really old, whatever our years. We must think youthful thoughts, associate with young people and interest them. When a person ceases to interest the young he may be sure that he is showing signs of old age.—Success.

A Shrewd Client.

An amusing story is told among lawyers of a Walloon peasant who had gone to law with a neighbor. In a conversation with his lawyer he suggested sending the magistrate a couple of fine ducks.

"Not for your life," said his adviser. "If you do you'll lose the case." The judgment was given in his favor, when he turned to his lawyer and said, "I sent the ducks." Astonishment on the latter's part turned to admiration when his client continued, "But I sent them in my neighbor's name."—London Express.

Simply Impossible.

"Have you got the plans for your new house completed yet?" some one asked him. "Not quite," he replied. "There is a difference of opinion between my wife and me as to the interior arrangements. She says the pantry is too large and that there are too many closets."

Without another word the medal for the biggest lie of the evening was awarded to him.—Chicago Tribune.

His Idea Capacity.

"I read somewhere the other day," said Mr. Henpeck, "that one of the big mercantile corporations pays a certain man $1,000 for each idea he furnishes. George, I'd like to have a chance of that kind!"

"Wretch!" exclaimed Mrs. Henpeck. "Do you want your innocent wife and child to starve?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

So Smart.

Gerald—May I kiss you?
Geraldine—Mother is in the next room.

Gerald—That's all right. Your father can kiss her.—Illustrated Bits.

It is a sign you are growing old when you read the obituary before the marriage notices.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE AVERAGE BRAIN.

What It Weighs and the Number of Cells It Contains.

Whether it be the brain cell of a glowworm or one trembling with the harmonies of "Tristan and Isolde" the stuff it is made of is much the same. It is a difference of structure apparently rather than of material. And the chemical difference between a brain or nerve cell and that of the muscles or the skin seems reducible mainly to a difference in the proportion of two substances—water and phosphorus. Lean beef, for example, is from 70 to 80 per cent water; the brain is from 90 to 95 per cent water. And a brain or nerve cell may contain from five to ten times as much phosphorus as, let us say, the cells of the liver or the heart. The actual quantity is of course extremely small—by weight but a fraction of 1 per cent.

About three pounds avoirdupois of this very complex phosphorized stuff make up an average human brain. There is a lot more of it distributed down one's spinal column, and little plexuses all over the body wherever a group of muscles are to be moved, and others still, the sensory or feeling nerves, which are everywhere. It is hard to find a cubical half inch outside the bones where they are not.

All told, the nervous substance, which for the sake of making its functions clear I have called the matter which thinks, forms a not inconsiderable portion of the body outside of the bony skeleton. It is made up of distinct and separated units, for the most part extremely minute, though some attain a length of two or three feet. These units, for lack of a more misleading name, are called cells. The "cells" which run from the small of your back down into your legs and wiggle the same or inform you when a member of the family is stubbed, are the longest. Those of the brain are mostly so small as to tax the powers of the microscope. Their average length would be measured in thousandths of an inch. There have been many attempts to get at their actual number. It is certainly large. Computations for the brain alone range from 600,000,000 upward. One, due, I think, to Waldeyer, sets the total number of brain cells (average) at 1,600,000,000,000. This would mean a brain population exceeding the known population of the earth.—Carl Snyder in Harper's Magazine.

FACTS ABOUT FOLKS.

Boys grow more regularly than girls. The memory which acts quickest acts best.

Urban life decreases stature from five years of age on.

Firstborn children exceed later born in stature and weight.

Children born in summer are taller than those born in winter.

Red and yellow are visible at greater distances than green and blue.

Truant boys are inferior in weight, height and chest girth to boys in general.

Dull children are lighter and precocious children heavier than the average child.

Great men, though often absentminded, have strong memories on the lines of their interests.

Healthy men ought to weigh an additional five pounds for every inch in height beyond sixty-one inches, at which height they ought to weigh 120 pounds.

Baldness Caused by Fear.

Several carefully observed cases of falling hair from emotion have been recorded, but the following is probably one of the most curious: A normally healthy farmer, thirty-eight years of age, saw his child thrown out of a cart and trampled upon by a mule. He supposed it killed and experienced in his fright and tension a sensation of chilliness and tension in the head and face. The child escaped with a few bruises, but the father's hair, beard and eyebrows commenced to drop out the next day, and by the end of the week he was entirely bald. A new growth of hair appeared in time, but much finer.—London Answers.

Curing a Snake Bite.

This is how the Indians of Central America cure a snake bite: They pin the unlucky patient to the ground and wind strong creepers above and below the bite until they cut into the flesh. Then they apply a live coal to the wound to cauterize it and follow that up by rubbing in a mixture of chewed tobacco and crushed garlic. By this time the victim is nearly mad with pain and ready to kill everybody in sight, especially when he finds, as he often does, that the snake was not venomous.

Pleased Him.

"I think we might give Bridget a dollar more a week," said the family man.

"What?" exclaimed his wife. "I set her to work cleaning the parlor today, and you should see the way she left it."

"I did. That's what influenced me. I noticed she fixed the piano with the keyboard close up against the wall."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Literalist.

Wealthy Citizen—But I said distinctly in my advertisement that I wanted "a reliable colored coachman," and you are a red faced Irishman.

Applicant—But sure, sir, isn't red as reliable a color as black?—Baltimore American.

Dividing the Deck.

"Now, Johnny," said the teacher, who had been describing a war ship to the class, "how is the deck divided?"

"A deck is divided," replied the bright boy, "into spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs."—Philadelphia Press.

The mind of the modern speak, of course, of the man all-lies in his dancing legs. The mind thus devoted to the lighter tasks of jocularly, skipping also from one author's jokes to those of another on a moment's notice, as its possessor skips from town to town and from stage to stage, is not a mind that can suddenly turn to the contemplation and the study of Shakespeare with any hope that the lines of the poet will get the better of the encounter. The actor who is to play Shakespeare acceptably must not frivol away his intellectual dignity. One cannot sing "Mary Had a Little Lamb" with all the enthusiasm of his soul for 300 nights and hope to be equal to the Magnificat or a Te Deum or Siegfried's Rhine Journey on the three hundred and first night. The tasks to which the modern English and American actor have destroyed the old school of Shakespeare actors. Now, we are not saying that this is not for the best; that in the processes of the evolution of the arts the theater has not naturally become what it is.—Harper's Weekly.

How Sleigh Bells Are Made.

"The making of sleigh bells is quite an art," says an iron founder. "The little iron ball is too big to be put in through the holes in the bell, and yet it is inside. How did it get there? The little iron ball is called 'the jinglet.' When you shake the sleigh bell it jingles. In making the bell the jinglet is put inside a little ball of mud, just the shape of the inside of the bell. Then a mold is made, just the shape of the outside of the bell. This mud ball with the jinglet inside is placed in the mold of the outside, and the metal is poured in, which fills up the space between the ball and the mold.

"When the mold is taken off, you see a sleigh bell, but it will not ring, as it is full of dirt. The hot metal that the bell is made of dries the dirt so that it can be shaken out. After the dirt is all shaken out of the holes in the bell the little iron jinglet will still be in the bell and will ring. It took a good many years to think out how to make a sleigh bell."

The Minister's Family.

At a conference of ministers of one of the smaller American denominations the question of the insufficiency of some of the salaries was being argued. One brother who was stationed at a mission post made a strong plea for an increase in salary. "To properly provide my family with the necessities," he said, "is a serious problem." "How many children have you?" asked a sympathetic brother of the cloth. "I have four boys and each one has a sister," was the prompt reply. Immediately the sympathetic friend took the floor. "How is it possible that our brother can provide even the barest necessities for his eight children?" "I did not say I had eight children; the boys have the same sister."

A Defense of the Spanish Woman.

More awful rubbish is written about the people, especially the women, of Latin countries than of almost anything else. Take them all, the sparkling daughters of Andalusia, the noble grave women of the Castiles, the enchanting Valencianes, the ruddy cheeked women of the Asturias and of Galicia, the robust and wholesome Catalonians, the proud Aragonese, and they make up a national grouping of women hard to surpass for charm and verve.—Mexican Herald.

Salary and Wages.

Daughter—Yes, pa, there are two young men who have asked me to marry, and both are nice fellows.

Father—And are both in a way to support you?

Daughter—I think so. Phil tells me he has a tidy salary, and George says he is receiving good wages.

Father—You choose George, and you will make no mistake, I think. At any rate, it's safer to marry a man who has wages than one who has a salary.—Boston Transcript.

He Saw the Finish.

Little Elmer while out walking with his nurse saw a blacksmith shoeing a horse and upon returning home said, "Mamma, I saw the man who makes horses today."

"Are you sure you did?" asked mamma.

"Of course I am," replied Elmer. "He had one nearly finished when I saw him. He was just nailing on its hind feet."—Chicago News.

His Trial.

"Ah, Sam, so you've been in trouble, eh?"

"Yes, Jim."

"Well, cheer up, man. Adversity tries us and shows up our better qualities."

"Ah, but adversity didn't try me. It was a solemn old judge, and he showed up my worst qualities."

Something in the Filling.

"Do you know you can tell a man's disposition by his teeth?" asked the girl who believes in signs, bumps and palm reading.

"How interesting!" said her companion, who did not believe in anything. "Then Jack must have a golden disposition."

Those Who Roost.

Newcomer—They tell me hens never lay eggs at night. Did you know that?

Subbubs—Oh, yes.

Newcomer—Strange, isn't it?

Subbubs—Not at all. All the hens are roosters at night, you know.—Philadelphia Press.

The life of every man is a diary in which he means to write one story and writes another.
